PERE HENRY'S THRILLING ADVEN-TURES IN HEATHEN CHINA.

Forced to Witness the Murder o Many Christians-Source of Yellow River Found by Germans.

TACOMA, Wash., March 9 .- Oriental ad vices just received state: The Chung-King correspondent of the North China Daily News sends the following thrilling story of Pere Henry's captivity, as related by himself: "On the 17th of January Yu Mantze found himself completely surrounded by the Fantai's troops. His escape was impossible, so he came to me and told me to get away to the imperial troops at once, as the Fantai had promised him and his followers their lives if they delivered me up safely. I started away immediately, Yu Mantze accompanying me. We had not gone far before we were overtaken by about two hundred of Yu's men, who wished to kill me and would have done so but for the earnest exhortations of Yu. He explained how the Fantai had promised them their lives and liberty if they delivered me up, so that if they killed me they would be destroyed and finally how the country would be invaded | the necessary funds to erect a monument by a foreign army and they would be exterminated. Yu's counsels prevailed and the would-be murderers fined themselves up as posts of the imperial troops. Yu's men a about 2,000 now, the Fantai having struck treated kindly faring the whole of my captivity. Any man Yu heard deviling me knocked down. Yu was quite afraid to kill me, although I invited him to do so. He carried me around from city to city and made me witness the murder of many Christians. One old man who was sixty-five years old was killed before my eyes. Yu is backed up by the local officials and the gentry, the latter helping him with money, the former by shutting their eyes."

STRANGE LANDS EXPLORED.

Source of the Yellow River Discovered by Two Germans.

VANCOUVER, March 9.-Advices from the Orient by the steamer Empress of India say: There arrived in Shanghai recently two distinguished travelers, Professor Futerrer, of Karlsruhe, geologist, and Dr. Holterer, of Baden, who have just crossed northeastern Thibet from Turkestan, discovering the source of the Yellow river and entering China by the northwest, reaching Hankow and civilization by Han river. The professor has left for home via Japan and the United States. The two gentlemen left Germany on Nov. 19, 1897, accompanied by a German servant. Reaching Su-Chou, the explorers went to Sinang-Fu, which they south of the Kokonor. At this point their servants deserted them and the travelers were swindled by natives. They left Donkor on Aug. 6 and went over country never before traversed by foreigners. With them were two Cossacks and eight Chinese. In the upper Taho valley the party were attacked by thirty robbers, one half of whom kept up a lively fusiliade while their companions raided the animals of the expedition. The explorers returned the fire and ing Tau-Chou, where some American missionaries were met, it became evident that full of robbers, so traveling there had to be abandoned. Accordingly the party went on to Man-Chou, Ping-Liangu and Singan-Fu, which latter place was reached at Christmas, then down Tan river in a couple of boats to Han river, which took them to Hankow on Jan. 4. Dr. Futerrer made valuable geological collection, besides taking careful observations for meteorological and map-making purposes, while Dr. Holterer more particularly interested himself in zoological matters, getting together an important collection

DISLOYAL ALASKANS.

Citizens of Port Wrangel Want Their Town Ceded to Canada.

SEATTLE, Wash., March 9.-The citizens of Port Wrangel, Alaska, are said by late arrivals from the north to be drawing up petition asking the high joint committee to cede their town to Canada. This is one of the oldest settlements in Alaska. They desire to be the center of the Canadian travel to the mines of the interior and think a change of flags would help their business chances. The only excuse they offer for their desire to get from under the American flag is that the principles and laws for which that flag stands are not in effect in Alaska. They claim that the territory has been abused and neglected. Wrangel is the starting point for the interior by the Stickeen or all-Canadian trail. It proved a dismal failure last year and the Canadian government has about given up hopes of geting to the interior that way. It is doubtful if Canada would accept Wrangel as the British entrance. Wrangel has about 500 population.

One of $100,000 to Endow a Chair, to Which Dr. Van Dyke Was Elected.

PRINCETON, N. J., March 9 .- An important meeting of the trustees of Princeton was held here to-day. President Patton reported that gifts amounting to $65,000 had been received to be used for the general expenses of the academic department. He then announced that $100,000 had been donated for the endowment of a chair in English literature on the condition that Rev. Dr. Henry Van Dyke, of New York city, be the first incumbent. D. H. McAlpin, of New York, gave $50,000 of the amount, and the other $50,000 was secured through the efforts of C. C. Cuyler and M. Taylor Pyne. Dr. Van Dyke was elected to the chair. POSTMASTER ARRESTED

CHARGED WITH OPENING LETTERS OF BUSINESS MEN.

Trap Set by Secret-Service Men and the Official Surprised in the Act of Tampering with the Mails.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., March 9.-Edward

F. Bogert, postmaster of Wilkesbarre, was arrested to-day, charged with tampering with the United States mails. About two months ago several complaints were lodged with the postal atuhorities at Washington that mail was disappearing or that which they received bore evidence of having been opened by a steaming process. The postal authorities subsequently detailed two secretservice men on the case under orders of Inspector Gorman. Last night, after the mail from Baltimore and Washington artered the office and was seen to take several letters from the boxes and then go into his private office and carefully draw down a curtain. A few minutes later a detective, who was acting as a clerk, turned out an electric light in the rear end of the office this being a signal to two other secretservice men, who were stationed outside. The man on the inside carefully admitted his associates, one of whom was Hugh Gorman. The two men went at once to Bogert's private office, and, without the ceremony of knocking, entered, and there found the postmaster seated at his desk, on which lay three letters addressed to prominent business men of this city, and all of them opened. The postmaster was surprised and not a little excited for a few minutes, but soon recovered his composure. He was later escorted to his home by the secret-service men, where warrant for his arrest was subsequently served. He was taken before United States Commissioner Hahn, where he gave bail i $4,000 for his appearance later.

Mr. Bogert, besides being editor of the Evening Leader, of this city, is a member past ten or twelve years has been an active gentleman who was prominent in Democratic county and state politics and at the time of his death was postmaster. The news of the arrest created a big sensation, especially in political circles.

Postmaster Borget will not be interviewed. but in his paper, the Evening Leader, tonight appears the following: "There are always two sides to a question, and when there are three or four fellows, and one or two in particular, clamoring for a political office and hungry for the emoluments atached thereto there are sure to be schemes worked and plans formed to entrap the incumbent, cause his removal and punish him otherwise, even if nothing further than the innoyance and chagrin that accomplishment of their devilish underhand work imposes When the diabolical schemers are fully shown up and their trickery exposed there is a question as to which side will furnish the raciest reading."

The inference to be drawn from the above s that Bogert imagined himself the victim of a conspiracy to oust him from the postmastership, and in order to discover the conspirators he opened letters addressed to Republican politicians.

The New Postoffice Site.

To the Editor of the Indianapolis Journal:

The architectural effect of a large buildng is heightened when it stands across or at the head of a street. Our handsome Union Station, that cost nearly $1,000,000, cannot be seen a half-square away, whereto that locality, and would loom up as a grand monument of architectural beauty visible out that thoroughfare, both north and south, for a distance of one and a half miles. The Statehouse stands in Market street, while the beauty of the location of the monument cannot be excelled, standing, as it does, at the intersection of two streets, With its four avenues of approach it may be admired at whatever distance is most pleasurable. Why not vacate Market street, from Alabama to New Jersey, and buy the two half squares on either side and ocate the new postoffice in Market street where its majestic lines would be easily visible for squares away? The vacation of the street would add nearly one acre of ground. Court street, being thirty feet wide now, could be made forty feet in width with but little loss of ground. The Washington-street car lines would be but half a block distant, which is sufficiently near, and yet not so close as to be objectionable on account of noise. The improvements on the half block between Market and Court streets are not worth over $10,000, while those on the half-block between Market and Wabash would not probably exceed $30,000. The whole cost of ground and improvements would not exceed, say, $300,000. If the present postoffice site should only be sold for this sum it would leave the entire appropriation of $1,500,000 for the construction of the building. One has only to stand in Market street near the postoffice, and, looking eastward, imagine the new structure located in the middle of that thoroughfare, only two blocks away, to be convinced of its superiority over the other sites suggested.

Indianapolis, March 9. To the Editor of the Indianapolis Journal: The ideal place for our new postoffice is the triangle bounded by Massachusetts ave- | pany, and James E. Fennessy, of Empire Theater. nue, New York and Pennsylvania streets. date the greatest number of people, improve the greatest number of streets, and still be convenient to the lawyers. There are no valuable buildings on this ground and there is plenty of room for an imposing structure.
